Welcome to Hopewell Borough!

Designated a "village center," Hopewell Borough is small in size, rich in history and full of good spirited local flavor. Much of the borough has been designated a historic district and after taking a short walk through town, you'll see why. As borough residents, we exchange services with the surrounding Hopewell Township, yet we retain the sense of community that only a small town can foster. Our children walk to the beautiful Hopewell Elementary School each day, greeted by crossing guards who know them by name. We hold many traditional annual family events and our residents are diverse in ages and incomes, races and religions.

For nearby recreation, hike the Sourland Mountain Preserve and understand why Charles Lindbergh, from an aerial view, chose to build his home in Hopewell. Jog or bike along one of the many area trails. Bird watch or take an art course at the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association. Enjoy fresh vegetables as a CSA member of one of the many local farms. Get involved in one of our community groups. Whatever you choose to do, you'll be doing it with friends.

Incorporated in 1891, Hopewell is a town of 2,000 in-borough residents, with an additional 2,000 who consider the borough to be their community. It has been featured in New Jersey Monthly magazine as one of the "10 best small towns in NJ" and one of the "25 best places to call home in the Garden State".
